New Operations & Technology Hub

LEITNER strengthens its presence in the Aosta Valley

Investment of more than three million euros in service and technology

LEITNER is further expanding its presence in the Aosta Valley and, together with the companies of the HTI Group, is investing in a new Operations & Technology Hub in Pollein near Aosta. More than three million euros have been invested in the site.

Strategic location for alpine infrastructure

The new center is located on a site covering approximately 3,500 square meters and offers around 800 square meters of usable space. Located less than five kilometers from the nearest motorway exit, the site provides suitable conditions for service, maintenance and logistics activities.

For LEITNER, the investment further strengthens its local presence in one of Europe's most important alpine regions. The site will also create new high-skilled jobs in workshop, warehouse and administrative functions.

Close to operators and projects

By expanding the site, LEITNER aims to provide municipalities and operators in the Aosta Valley with faster technological support.

The stronger regional presence enables short distances, rapid response times and efficient support throughout the entire lifecycle of ropeway installations.
